Dear Members and Friends:

Phew! We made it. With 2020 in the rear-view mirror, we can take stock of what we survived and begin to imagine what we want to create in 2021. As I reflect on some moments of deep despair last year, I’m strengthened by knowing that we’re on the other side of the election; the new administration is looking more like us; vaccines are being distributed; we’re engaged in more honest conversations about racial equity; and San Francisco Village is stronger than ever.

As deep as my despair was a few months ago, so is the hope I feel for the future. History teaches us that times of crises are rife with opportunities for learning and innovation. After the 1918 flu pandemic, European countries moved to centralized health care systems. The Great Depression led to Social Security and WWII spawned countless technological and medical advances such as the commercial production of penicillin. What will human ingenuity produce from the events of 2020?

As Americans, we face some enormous challenges in 2021 and beyond: the climate crisis, rebuilding our democracy so it serves everyone; re-ordering our economic priorities; dismantling white supremacy; and re-establishing our shared sense of truth. We’re talking systems-level change, which can feel overwhelming. What can we do as individuals to make a difference? That’s the question I’ll take into my heart at the start of this new year.

Later this month, SFV is partnering with My Life, My Stories to offer an intergenerational dialogue series for women to explore their civic consciousness. Sharing stories from our lived experience, we’ll ask questions like: How did we develop our sense of civic responsibility? What happened in your life that made you turn towards community? How can individual acts of caring help to repair the broken places in... our culture? We’ll conclude with an invitation to create our own individual action plan for the new year.

Also this month, Bill Haskell is asking you to care about the climate crisis by attending a meeting with other Villagers from around the state to consider what we can do collectively to prevent further devastation of our planet. Let’s take advantage of the fact that we’re part of a larger Village Movement in California, comprised of caring, socially conscious people committed to future generations and the preservation of Mother Earth! By joining together with others, our individual efforts will be accelerated.

I’ll close with this verse from Emily Dickinson: Hope is the thing with feathers - that perches in the soul - and sings the tune without the words and never stops at all. May your heart be filled with hope and possibility as we turn the corner on this year that has changed us all.

With gratitude and love,

Kate

Did You Know?

Annual Member Survey

Your feedback is important! San Francisco Village receives more than half of its funding from the City of San Francisco and private foundations, which require that we demonstrate the impact of membership in people’s lives. This survey is the primary source of data that we use to tell that story.

Please complete by Friday, January 22, 2021. You can mail us a copy of the paper survey we included in this mailing or fill it out online at https://www.surveymonkey.com/r/SFV2021membersurvey

Our City funder, the Department of Aging and Adult Services, is asking that 75% of our membership complete this survey. Please help us reach that goal by completing and returning it to us today.

It’s Annual Membership Renewal Time!

For those members who renew annually, you received a renewal notice in the mail in December and we ask that you return it to us promptly. For those of you who pay monthly, there’s nothing you need to do at this time.

We’re grateful to ALL of you who have stayed with San Francisco Village during the tumult of 2020. We believe there is no better time to be connected to a loving, responsive community of friends and neighbors. We’re so glad you joined when you did!

If you’d like to renew your membership by phone, or have any membership questions, please give Jill a call at 415-387-1375 ext. 2.
Holiday Schedule
San Francisco Village will be closed until January 4th. Happy New Year! We will also be closed on Monday, January 18th in honor of Martin Luther King Jr. Day.

Nominate a Volunteer for the 2020 San Francisco Village Volunteer Hall of Fame
One of the bright spots of 2020 was the way members and volunteers came to each other’s aid through a trying and stressful year. Week in and week out, volunteers responded to requests that kept members connected, supplied and safe. We saw volunteers bring pets to the vet, grocery shop for others, coach us on Zoom, make a friendly phone call, weed a garden and meet up as a walking partner.

For the first time ever, we are asking members to nominate a volunteer who went the extra mile for our 2020 SFV Volunteer Hall of Fame. Has an SFV member or volunteer done something special or extraordinary for you in 2020? Has a volunteer been there for you month after month and in some cases year after year? To nominate a volunteer, send an email to jill@sfvillage.org or call Jill at 415-387-1375 x2 and let her know who you are nominating and why. The deadline for nominations is January 15th. Alone we can do so little, together we can do so much - Helen Keller

RSVPs Needed!
Now that all of our connections are virtual, RSVPs are necessary for you to receive the log on information. We request you RSVP at least 24 hours before a program to give staff time to respond. We try our best to accommodate last minute decisions, but it’s not always possible.

Let’s Take Action On Climate Change
The pace of climate change is accelerating and so must our response to it. Individual lifestyle changes are important, but the climate crisis requires collective solutions if we are going to slow change and prevent devastation of our planet. There is renewed hope that the Biden Administration will coordinate structural change at the policy level, along with states like California, Oregon and Washington. But there is much to be done at the local community level and villages are well-suited to join that effort. We’re caring, socially conscious, committed to future generations and organized!
Bill Haskell, SFV Board Co-Chair, is proposing that SFV members join together with other Villages in California to harness the power of older adults who are determined to leave future generations a planet that will sustain them. Together with Village Movement CA (VMC) and Ashby Village in the East Bay, interested SFV members can start by attending an exploratory meeting in late January or early February. Several options are on the table, such as joining with an existing nonprofit focused on climate action. A few examples:

- 1,000 Grandmothers Bay Area: Elder women working to address the climate crisis. Auxiliary members are included - friends and relations, young and old. Particularly focused on climate justice.

- 350.org Bay Area: Volunteers, working to: (1) raise awareness and urgency about the climate crisis; (2) mobilize to demand action required to protect us all from the worst impacts; (3) support young people calling for a livable planet; and (4) dig into policy options to get real emissions reductions actions passed.

- Environment California: Environment California is a nonprofit political organization that lobbies for environmental legislation in the U.S. and California. It is affiliated with Environment America and the Fund for the Public Interest.

- Nature Conservancy of California: We work to protect the ecosystems, species and natural resources that make the Golden State unlike anywhere else. From stopping mega-fires to restoring our coasts, we access the power of nature to protect what matters: our home.

- Active Allies: Working to advance climate action and justice through youth employment and intergenerational collaboration. Sponsors, Mentors, Advisors, and Project Managers all work together to defend, repair, and regenerate our communities and our world.

As individuals, we’re limited in what we can achieve. When we join together, our power is a force to be reckoned with. The climate crisis requires that force! Join us in discovering how we will leverage our numbers to make a lasting difference for generations to come. Contact Bill Haskell bhaskell@sonic.net to learn more.

Portable Memories in Rising Seas
Thursday, January 14, 10:30 AM – 12:00 PM
RSVP to (415) 387-1375 or info@sfvillage.org

What is the relationship between climate change, grief, and memory? The Fifty-Fifty art collective will lead a participatory workshop that focuses on this question, in conjunction with their project Portable Memories in Rising Seas currently on view in the exhibition AFTERLIFE (we survive) at the Yerba Buena Center for the Arts.

Portable Memories in Rising Seas is a participatory project that materializes personal and collective responses to climate change. The project seeks to connect our living past with our unwritten futures and frame anticipatory grief as potentially transformational.

Fifty-Fifty works from the belief that reflection and imagination are important ways of processing thoughts and feelings about the way our planet and our homes are changing. At this workshop, they are engaging residents of the Bay Area to generate dialogue and create an archive of reflections. Two short films will be screened, and you will be invited to record your responses through doodling and mark-making on scratchboard (provided in advance by SFV after you RSVP for the event).

Your drawings will become part of Portable Memories in Rising Seas and will inspire the prints that Fifty-Fifty shows in the next iteration of the project. Your drawings will also be shown underwater to sea life as an attempt to further transmit your memories.

This project depends on local participation. Your contribution is vital! It will help to create a heightened sense of interdependence that can lead to action and empathy for near and distant neighbors.
